Minister in the Clemenceau Cabinet, while he was advocating acceptance of a minimum amount from Germany immediately rather than insist on larger payments in the future.

"It is not in the course of an interruption such as this," declared the Premier, "that I can state our position, but I will do so from the tribune."

"I have a deep conviction." he continued "that it would not be sufficient to make an appeal to Germany's good will, but we must be in a position to coerce her to fulfill her obligations should she show an inclination to postpone such good will."

He then read into the record the following additional statement from the informant to whom he referred yesterday with reference to two New York liquor cases:

"Add to what you have already said that the District Attorney's office in New York recommended criminal prosecution and confiscation of cargo, yet Daugherty wired to release ship. The J. M. Young is a matter of record in the District Attorney's office and it might be a good idea to ask Major Clark, who is handling the case in the District Attorney's office, for the facts in the Congressional inquiry.
